FACEBOOK DEBUTS INSTANT ARTICLES

9 media outlets partner with social network

By Andrea Chang | LOS ANGELES TIMES

Facebook has launched Instant Articles, enabling media outlets to publish their stories directly to the social network.

Nine big news publishers, including the New York Times, BuzzFeed and National Geographic, have signed on as launch partners. After months of rumors, Facebook began hosting their news articles on its iPhone app on Wednesday.

"As more people get their news on mobile devices, we want to make the experience faster and richer on Facebook," product manager Michael Reckhow said.

It's a bit of an uneasy arrangement, with news outlets handing over some control to the Menlo Park, Calif., tech giant. In return, the publishers hope to grow their readership and reach by increasing their presence on the world's biggest social network.

> "AS MORE PEOPLE GET THEIR NEWS ON MOBILE DEVICES, WE WANT TO MAKE THE EXPERIENCE FASTER AND RICHER ON FACEBOOK."
> —Michael Reckhow, Facebook product manager

"We're participating in Instant Articles to explore ways of growing the number of Times users on Facebook, improving their experience of our journalism and deepening their engagement," said Mark Thompson, chief executive of the New York Times Co.

Facebook maintains that the platform was designed to keep publishers in charge of their content, brand experience and money-making opportunities.

The company said Instant Articles uses the same technology used to display photos and videos quickly in the Facebook app, so articles load instantly, "as much as 10 times faster than the standard mobile web." Instant Articles also includes a suite of interactive features. Readers can zoom in and explore high-resolution photos by tilting their phones, watch auto-play videos as they scroll through stories, explore interactive maps, listen to audio captions, and like and comment on individual parts of an article.

The other launch partners are NBC, the Atlantic, the Guardian, BBC News, Spiegel and Bild.

STUDY: FACEBOOK, TWITTER FACTOR IN 1 OF 7 DIVORCES

By Phil Nobile | NEWSDAY

"Till death do us part" may need a status update.

A recent study found that one in seven married people in the United Kingdom have considered getting a divorce because of their spouses' Facebook, Twitter or other social media activity.

The study, commissioned by the Australia-based multinational law firm Slater and Gordon, was in response to an increasing number of clients saying social media platforms played a role in their divorces.

"Five years ago Facebook was rarely mentioned in the context of a marriage ending, but now it has become commonplace," Andrew Newbury, head of personal legal services at the law firm, said in a news release. "Social media is the new marriage minefield. Social media, specifically pictures and posts on Facebook, are now being routinely raised in divorces."

The survey was conducted by a firm called Censuswide, which interviewed 2,011 husbands and wives in the United Kingdom.

More than 14 percent looked at their spouses' social media accounts specifically to detect possible adultery, and a fifth of those surveyed said they felt unsure about their relationship after discovering something on their partners' Facebook accounts.

A third of the people said they keep their login details secret from their partners. More than 25 percent of the people said resulting suspicions led to fights of at least one week, and 17 percent said fights over social media were a daily occurrence.

Go the distance with your significant other

The Second City NETWORK
Julie Marchiano
» @SecondCityNetwk

Long-distance relationships are tough—regardless of the distance or the time apart. Most of the time, I live in the same city as my boyfriend, but other times I live in vans and hotels. While that lifestyle is very fun (read: allows me to eat Arby's a lot), it also can be lonely, even though I know I have someone waiting for me at home. So, here are some things that I've learned that may help you if ever you are separated from your sweetie.

Fight on FaceTime: Fights are less fight-y when you are looking at the person, so try handling disagreements through your MacBook Air or iPhone. Warning: It's easy to let a fight escalate when the person you're talking to keeps changing camera angles accidentally.

Get creative with sexts: God/Apple knew what they were doing when they updated their emoji keyboard—to give us all beautiful, accurately colored Lego people picture porn for our loved ones! Pro-tip: There are lots of fruit emojis that look just like ding dongs, hoo-has, tatas and butts. Haaaaaaaaay.

> “Send flowers or letters or postcards. Or just, like, take a picture on Instagram and then be like, ‘Hey, look at the pic I just posted, babe.’

Bring home presents: A gift from a place you visited says, “I went here, and I wish you did, too!” You can go all-out and start your loved one a religious-T-shirts- from-Iowa-truck-stops collection. Less expensive and more secular options include a refrigerator magnet or your tiny hotel lotion.

Construct a proxy: When I'm missing my dude, I like to turn my extra pillow longways on my bed next to me and hug it while I sleep. That's real! Take it to the next level by borrowing your mate's favorite tee and dressing your pillow up to look like him or her! Then maybe see if you can find, like, a wig or a lock of their hair and just stick it on top. Then prop it up, turn out your lights and scare the [bleep] out of housekeeping.

Try old-school romance: Send flowers or letters or postcards. Or just, like, take a picture on Instagram and then be like, ‘Hey, look at the pic I just posted, babe. LY, BYE.’

Any time apart from your person is tough. You have to find what works for the both of you and what things you can do to keep yourself sane. But, you know, if I had one morsel, one big takeaway, I would just say that there are so many things that vibrate.

VOYAGE 2: A CLINICAL RESEARCH STUDY FOR PATIENTS WITH MODERATE-TO-SEVERE PLAQUE-TYPE PSORIASIS IS NOW ENROLLING

If you have been diagnosed with moderate-to-severe plaque-type psoriasis you may be interested to learn about the VOYAGE 2 clinical research study that is being conducted to study the safety and effectiveness of an investigational medication for moderate-to-severe plaque-type psoriasis.

You may be eligible to participate if you:

- Are 18 years of age or older (or the legal age of consent in the jurisdiction in which the study is taking place)
- Have been diagnosed with plaque-type psoriasis for at least 6 months

Additional criteria will be reviewed at the screening visit to determine if your condition meets all requirements for the study. Eligible study participants will be provided with study medication and study-related medical care at no cost.

A drone being flown by Ryan Twose in Brickyards Park in Deerfield, Ill. LENNY GILMORE/REDEYE FILE

Park District mulls drone ban

By Leonor Vivanco | REDEYE

Drone operators may have one more layer of red tape to get through so they can fly the small unmanned aircraft over Chicago Park District property including harbors on the lakefront.

During Wednesday's meeting, a measure requiring drone operators to get a special city permit to fly the small unmanned aircraft over Park District property was introduced, only to be tabled for another month.

The vote was postponed after board members questioned how the permitting process would work, who would approve the permits, how quickly approval would be granted and whether there would be any locations drones would not be allowed.

The lack of details also left drone users with questions on how the permits would work and the reason behind why a permit would be required.

Chicagoan Colin Hinkle, who uses drones to take aerial photos, told RedEye in a phone interview before the meeting, "It is a flying digital camera. We're not trying to spy on people."

If the permitting process is too obtrusive, Hinkle said, "It's not going to make me want to make beautiful aerial shots of Chicago."

In April, Hinkle was granted an exemption to current aircraft rules by the Federal Aviation Administration, which authorizes the use of drones for commercial purposes.

"It sounds to me a little like the city is trying to go for a money grab on permits," Hinkle said.

There's some concern that drones can "pose potential risks" to those who use park property, according to a park district document on the measure.

By permitting drones, the park district said, it can manage the risks and still allow for recreational and commercial use.

The FAA tells users to stay away from buildings and populated events like concerts and sporting events, Hinkle said. Generally, the safest places to fly drones are at parks and wide open areas like the lakefront and Northerly Island, he said.

"You work so hard to get your [FAA] exemption and with one swift move of the pen now I can't use my drone in any parks in Chicago without a permit," Hinkle said.

That's the amount Riot Fest organizers are pledging to keep the Humboldt Park beach and lagoon open; Riot Fest has been at odds with the local alderman, who would like to jettison the concert from Humboldt Park as repairs to the park continue months after the popular music festival ended. The park district has said it wants to come up with sustainable alternatives because it costs $1 million a year to fill the lagoon for the beach. —LEONOR VIVANCO, REDEYE

Homicides from May 6 to 4 p.m. Wednesday.

HOMICIDE TRACKER

By Megan Crepeau | REDEYE

A 5-year-old girl's brutal beating death was one of five homicides reported citywide in the past week, according to a RedEye analysis of preliminary police data.

Verna Tobicoe was found unconscious in a bathtub in South Chicago on Thursday, according to authorities, and the next day her death was ruled a homicide due to blunt force injuries. Prosecutors stated Tobicoe had lacerations in her liver and intestines as well as multiple skull fractures, in addition to bruising.

Tobicoe's stepmother has been charged with first-degree murder in connection with the incident. Tobicoe is the third child younger than 10 to be killed in Chicago this year, according to RedEye data.

Gunshot homicides were reported this week in Englewood and Greater Grand Crossing. The death of a woman in the Austin community was ruled a homicide by blunt force injuries.

Thirteen homicides have been reported citywide so far this month. So far this year, 134 homicides have been reported.

2015 Stanley Cup Playoffs

HAWKS

WESTERN CONFERENCE FINALS

Blackhawks goalie Corey Crawford and Corey Perry of the Anaheim Ducks MCT

COREY, COREY

WHICHEVER TEAM'S STAR—CRAWFORD OR PERRY—SHINES BRIGHTEST COULD TOP WESTERN CONFERENCE

Alex Quigley
redeye@redeyechicago.com

The weird "puck luck" of the Stanley Cup Playoffs often allows for deep Cinderella runs, but the two remaining teams in the Western Conference really are the two best teams—and they're both playing their best hockey of the season.

The Blackhawks have lost only two games this postseason. The Ducks have lost only once. The Ducks have a ridiculous postseason-best plus-17 goal differential, a light-year ahead of Chicago's plus-4. Meanwhile, the Hawks never trailed for a single second in their sweep of Minnesota.

This series should be a six- or seven-game slobberknocker, and the result may come down to the relative performance of the two Coreys: Anaheim's Perry, who leads the NHL in postseason scoring, and Chicago's Crawford, the embattled-then-emboldened goaltender.

Therefore, within this column I've hidden 10 references to movies made by the other two Coreys, Haim and Feldman. Find all 10, email them to RedEye sports editor Chris Sosa at chsosa@redeyechicago.com and win an item off his desk!*

The Ducks' Corey is a former MVP with a rare skill set. You could call Perry a talented goon, i.e. some guy who can score 40 goals and log 100 penalty minutes in the same season. He's a lot like St. Louis' David Backes, except better. And Perry's captain and longtime first-line compatriot Ryan Getzlaf is cut from the same cloth.

But it's the revamped second line that should cause problems for the Blackhawks, centered by former Vancouver irritant Ryan Kesler. Anaheim's banking on the one-two punch of the Getzlaf and Kesler lines to be the silver bullet that'll keep the Blackhawks' skating stars on the defensive.

The Blackhawks' Corey has recovered from his first-round faceplant, playing as well as any netminder in hockey. From the moment Crawford regained his job in Game 6 against Nashville to the moment

BEARD MEN DAY30

The tradition continues! For as long as they're alive in the Stanley Cup playoffs, the Blackhawks' Kris Versteeg and Bryan Bickell will try to outgrow RedEye contributors Elliott Serrano and Evan F. Moore.

Minnesota pulled its goalie in Game 4, Crawford's stopped 135 of 140 shots for an unreal .964 save percentage. He's fended off the goaltending gremlins and was able to convince his team to "stand by me."

As for non-Corey questions, will the extra rest be enough to recharge the Blackhawks' over-worked top four defensemen? And did youngster David Rundblad get enough practice time to avoid being blown away by the pressure of playoff hockey?

At times against both Nashville and Minnesota, the Hawks' bottom two defensemen looked like lost boys on the ice. But Michal Rozsival's play improved as the Wild series went on, and his gruesome season- (and possibly career-) ending injury has thrust young Rundblad into his first-Stanley Cup playoffs action. Coach Joel Quenneville will be worried that his inexperience will give the Ducks a license to drive right to the net, so expect Duncan Keith to be on the ice with him often to cover up mistakes.

Will home ice make a difference in the series? Neither team has lost in their building yet in the playoffs. If Chicago fans want to dream a little Stanley Cup dream, the Blackhawks will have to win at least once in the 'burbs of L.A. I think they'll win one of the first pair and clinch at the United Center in six games, and I'll take them as a pre-emptive pick over any team to come out of the Eastern Conference.

Uh ... um ... "Lucas."

QUALITY BACKUP

Anaheim was the top team in the Western Conference in 2014-15 for a reason. Well, for many reasons, but one has been their defensemen's ability to contribute on offense. It's a trait they share with the Blackhawks, who beat the Ducks in two of three meetings in the regular season. Here are numbers that stand out as both teams prepare for the conference finals.
REDEYE

29

Number of points Ducks defensemen have produced in the postseason, tops among remaining teams entering Wednesday.

24.8

The average age of Anaheim's top five defensemen: Sami Vatanen (23), Hampus Lindholm (21), Francois Beauchemin (34), Cam Fowler (23) and Simon Despres (23).

22

Number of points Blackhawks defensemen have produced this postseason.

29.0

The average age of the Blackhawks' top five defensemen for this series: Duncan Keith (31), Brent Seabrook (30), Niklas Hjalmarsson (27), Johnny Oduya (33) and David Rundblad (24). Note: Rundblad replaces 36-year-old Michal Rozsival, who was hurt in the series-clinching game against Minnesota.

3.89, 2.00

The Ducks are averaging a playoff-best 3.89 goals per game while giving up 2.00 per contest, tied for second-fewest.

3.20, 2.80

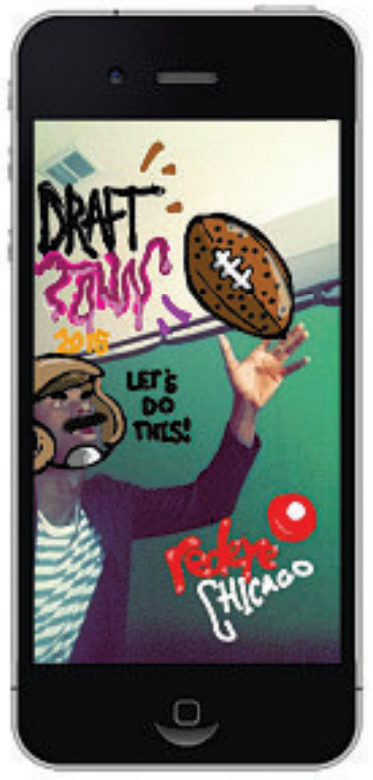

The Blackhawks are third with 3.20 goals per game and have allowed 2.80, sixth in the playoffs.

1	What could make this Deflate-gate story just go away?	If Tom Brady throws on a pair of Uggs, inflates his own set of balls and admits that he cheated.	Next season's inflate-gate scandal. Turns out it's very obvious when footballs are filled with peanut butter.	Who [bleeping] knows? It. Won't. End.	Gisele could model in another bikini runway show. People like to pay attention to that.	Tom Brady should arrange a meeting between Solange and Jay Z in a cramped space with video surveillance.
2	If the Bulls can't beat LeBron James, well, what should they do?	Join him! Just kidding! Just beat 'em. See red, y'all.	Join the freaking club.	Go home.	Deflate the basketballs in Game 6.	When my kickball team loses, a box of wine and pizza seem to do the trick.
3	How long will Carlos Rodon last in the White Sox's starting rotation?	How should I know?	Stop asking me about the White Sox.	Oh God, I don't know. But he was born in the '90s.	Probably from wearing spring sweaters to summer tank tops and then back to sweaters.	Until he hits puberty.
4	If you were Joe Maddon, how would you respond to questions about pitch counts?	"I'm Joe Maddon, and I don't have to respond to questions about pitch counts."	By throwing footballs filled with peanut butter.	"[Bleep] off."	"When we start deflating baseballs, you won't be able to count that high."	"A shot and a beer for everyone."
5	By the time the Hawks play another game, what will be different about them?	I don't know what's going to be different about them, but I've been working on my playoff beard. Sort of.	They'll be older. And wiser, maybe. Definitely older.	The Hawks beards will actually look like they belong on a man's face.	Their beards will look like ZZ Top.	They'll have their ducks in a row. (See what I did there?)

Not surprising, Manny Pacquiao has a different take on what happened in his recent fight against Floyd Mayweather. "I reviewed it repeatedly," Pacquiao told a TV station in the Philippines. "I scored myself. I was ahead two points." Of course, one could argue the people who paid to see the boring "showdown" were the real losers.

THE BEERIEST WEEK EVER?

CHICAGO CRAFT BEER WEEK

By Heather Shroering | REDEYE

It's the time when brewers near and far flock to Chicago. It's when beer, coffee and hot sauce can come together in perfect harmony. It's an excuse to wear outer-space garb and chug a bunch of brewskis. It's time to get beered at Chicago Craft Beer Week.

The 11-day week spans May 14-24, and there's no shortage of hop talk, tastings and brewer meet-and-greets. In its sixth year, it's bigger than ever with 400 events and counting. CCBW kicks off Thursday with Beer Under Glass at the Garfield Park Conservatory (300 N. Central Park Ave. 312-746-5100), with pours from nearly 100 breweries and food from more than 10 restaurants. This year, the brand-new Welles Park Craft Beer Fest on May 23—featuring more than 85 breweries—replaces the West Loop Craft Beer Fest as the week's official closing festival (however, there are still plenty of events to attend on the final day, May 24). Whether you're new to the craft beer scene or a CCBW vet, we've put together a how-to guide that covers everything from how to eat your beer to how to keep it weird.

HOW TO ... EAT YOUR BEER

MAY 14-24

The India Pale Doughnut

Glazed and Infused (813 W. Fulton Market 312-226-5556)

Who says you can't have beer for breakfast, especially if it's in doughnut form? The India Pale Doughnut is a hand-cut, yeast-raised ring dripping with a malted Maris Otter barley glaze and topped with Cascade hop powder. Throughout CCBW, they're available for $3 each or $16 for a half-dozen at the West Loop location (address above) as well as River North (30 E. Hubbard St.), Wicker Park (1576 N. Milwaukee Ave.), Streeterville (201 E. Delaware Place), Lincoln Park (939 W. Armitage Ave.) and the Loop (222 N. LaSalle St.). Hours vary per day and location (goglazed.com).

MAY 14

New Belgium Tap Takeover and Bike Giveaway

Division Ale House (1942 W. Division St. 773-384-6886)

Not only is this a New Belgium Brewing Company tap takeover, the Colorado-based beer takes over the food menu, too. This Irish pub in Wicker Park serves a bread bowl of Fat Tire amber ale cheese fondue with soda bread and vegetables ($10), an Irish breakfast brat with Slow Ride IPA baked beans ($6), Skinny Dip American blonde ale-brined smoked chicken sliders ($12) and La Folie sour brown ale sourdough pizza ($10). The four featured beers, along with Lips of Faith pear ginger beer, are on tap for $4-$8 and there also will be a New Belgium cruiser bike giveaway. 7 p.m.–2 a.m. No cover.

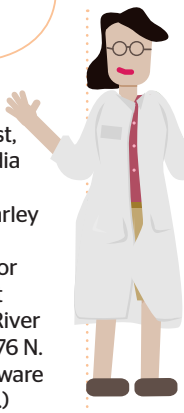

MAY 14-24

Revolution Spent Grain Pasta Salad

Revolution Brewing brewpub (2323 N. Milwaukee Ave. 773-227-2739)

Revolution puts its spent grains (the grains leftover from the brewing process) from its Ideology extra special bitter to use in this cold salad served with pasta made from the spent grains, carrots, yellow squash, cucumbers, grape tomatoes, red peppers and sugar snap peas. $11. 11 a.m.–2 a.m.

HOW TO ... LEARN SOME STUFF

MAY 18-20

Pints of Science

The Beer Bistro North (1415 W. Fullerton Ave. 773-525-2727)

Sip on craft beer while nerding out over scientific discoveries, such as mind-controlling bacteria and living to 100, at this three-day event that brings in researchers from nearby universities. Themes over the three days include microbes on Monday, sleep on Tuesday and physics on Wednesday. Bartenders serve beers from around the world throughout the event, and more specifically, cans of local craft breweries on Wednesday. 5:30–7:30 p.m. No cover.

MAY 19

All About Hops panel discussion

Jerry's Wicker Park (1938 W. Division St. 773-235-1006)

Industry folks—including Two Brothers Brewing Company owner and brewmaster Jason Ebel, Lagunitas Brewing Company head brewmaster Jeremy Marshall, Hop Head Farms co-founder Bonnie Steinman, Gorst Valley Hops director James Altwies, and Penrose Brewing Company founder Eric Hobbs—chat about new hop strains, importing hops, growing techniques and other topics at this panel moderated by Chicago Tribune travel and beer writer Josh Noel. 7–9 p.m. No cover.

MAY 19

Learn to Homebrew

C.H.A.O.S. Brew Club (2417 W. Hubbard St. 773-273-9430)

Meet other homebrewers and sample their beer as Matt Omura, education chair of the Chicago Homebrew Alchemists of Suds (C.H.A.O.S.) Brew Club, teaches guests how to brew in the nonprofit's shared brewing space. 5:30–11:30 p.m. Free.

HOW TO ... MEET THE BREWER

MAY 19

Ex-Goose Island Brewers Event

The Beer Bistro West Loop (1061 W. Madison St. 312-433-0013)

Meet Chicago brewers and brewery owners who came from Goose Island Beer Company, including John Laffler of Off Color Brewing, Jared Rouben of Moody Tongue Brewing Company and Frank Lassandrello of Motor Row Brewing. 6 p.m. no cover.

MAY 21

Women of Craft Beer Celebration

Riverview Tavern (1958 W. Roscoe St. 773-248-9523)

Hang out with women in the brewing industry at this Roscoe Village bar, where bartenders will tap 26 beers from the breweries of some of the women in attendance. The guest list includes Temperance Beer Company brewer Claudia Jendron, Begyle Brewing Co. brewer Liz French, Metropolitan Brewing co-founder Tracy Hurst and others. Donations from pint sales will benefit Dress for Success. $6–$8 drafts. 7 p.m. No cover.

MAY 21

Bowling w/ Brewers Timber Lanes Bowling Alley (1851 W. Irving Park Road 773-549-9770)

Bowl and booze with brewers from Begyle Brewing Co., Haymarket Pub & Brewery, Ale Syndicate Brewers, SlapShot Brewing Co., Flesk Brewing, Sketchbook Brewing Company, Revolution Brewing, among others. Timber Lanes serves a selection of craft beers on tap. 10 p.m.–2 a.m. Free.

MAY 24

Disc Golf Outing w/ Brewers Haymarket Pub & Brewery (737 W. Randolph St. 312-638-0700)

Disc golf and beer gurus unite as reps from breweries like Revolution, Metropolitan, Half Acre and others play a game of disc golf (which involves throwing a disc at a target in the fewest throws as possible). Meet the players at Haymarket before the 10 a.m. departure to an Evergreen Park disc golf course. Post-game, head to Horse Thief Hollow Brewing Co. in Beverly before meeting back at Haymarket at 4 p.m. The event is free, and the first 15 to reserve a spot can ride on the Chicago Brew Bus from Haymarket to the course. Others can meet at the course (91st Street and California Avenue) at 11 a.m. 9:45 a.m.–4 p.m. Reservations: wil@revbrew.com

HOW TO ... CELEBRATE THE STYLE

MAY 20

Ciders & Sours Farmhouse (228 W. Chicago Ave. 312-280-4960)

Try rare ciders and sour beers from Upland Brewing Co. in Indiana, Vander Mill in Michigan, Destihl Brewery in Bloomington, Ill., and others. The River North tavern also will pour its own house-made ciders. $7-$9. 6–8 p.m. No cover.

MAY 21

The Beasts of the Barrel 3

Fireside Restaurant (5739 N. Ravenswood 773-561-7433)

Beverage director Abraham Litberg taps his collection of wood- and barrel-aged beers, including Temperance Beer Co.'s Manhattan Barrel Aged Might Meets Right stout and Goose Island's 2014 Bourbon County stout $4-$9 a pour, prices may vary. 6 p.m. No cover.

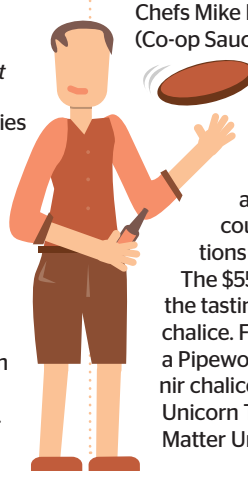

HOW TO ... PAIR YOUR BEER

MAY 15

Unicornucopia Tres

Star Lounge Coffee Bar (2521 W. Chicago Ave. 773-384-7827)

Chefs Mike Bancroft and Anne Kostroski (Co-op Sauce, Sauce and Bread Kitchen) prepare a five-course meal paired with five Pipeworks Brewing Company beers and Dark Matter Coffee. Rather than a sit-down beer dinner, the courses will be served at stations throughout the coffee shop. The $55 ticket option includes the tasting dinner and a souvenir chalice. For $95, get the beer dinner, a Pipeworks bomber, three souvenir chalices, a bottle of Co-op Sauce Unicorn Tears and a bag of Dark Matter Unicorn Blood coffee. 7–10 p.m.

MAY 21

Sours, Saisons and Zymatic Beermiscuous (2812 N. Lincoln Ave. 855-450-2337)

The tap takeover highlights sours and saisons in kegs and casks from nine Chicago-area breweries ranging from Noon Whistle Brewing to Une Annee Brewing and Marz Community Brewing Co. ABV Chicago beer podcasters Craig Gonciarczk and Ryan Ingwersen raffle off out-of-market sours, and Windy City Patty Wagon slings burgers. Also, sample a special saison brewed on the PicoBrew Zymatic, a microwave-sized all-grain brewing appliance for homebrewers, and watch a demo. Draft prices vary, most between $6–$10. 6:30–10 p.m. No cover.

MAY 16

Craft Beerzaar Dimo's Pizza (1615 N. Damen Ave. 773-525-4580)

Four "courses" in one slice, Dimo's pizza prepares a specially crafted pizza with four topping combinations and a flight of four 4-ounce beers ($12) at this craft bazaar with local vendors such as Milk Handmade clothing boutique, Made in Jewelry. No cover.

MAY 17

Cheesin' up CCBW

Map Room (1949 N.Hoyne Ave. 773-787-7292)

David Phillips, director of Cheese and Cheers, pairs American artisan cheeses with beers from the California-based Firestone Walker Brewing Company and local brewery Ten Ninety. 1:30–3 p.m. $30. Tickets are limited: brownpapertickets.com/event/1565346

HOW TO ... GET WEIRD

MAY 15

AstroProm Atlas Brewing Company (2747 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-295-1270)

Lincoln Park brewpub Atlas and Evanston-based Temperance Beer Co. take craft beer lovers out of this world at this dance party with beer from both breweries ($4-$9) and space-themed Astroshots including the Marvin the Martian with cocoa liqueur and cherry whiskey ($3). Space jams brought by DJ Catieo include disco, space rock and vintage garage beats. Come in costume for a chance at winning the title of prom emperor, rewarded with swag from both breweries. 7 p.m. No cover.

MAY 16

The Beerfly Alleyfight Haymarket Pub & Brewery (737 W. Randolph St. 312-638-0700)

In the event by The Drinking & Writing Theater that predates CCBW, according to host Steve Mosqueda, 10 homebrewers bring their own beer and a dish that pairs with it, and 10 artists perform short plays based on each pairing. Attendees taste the food and beer, watch the performances and vote on the best. $40. Noon–5 p.m. Tickets: chibeerweek.com

MAY 21

NW Side Craft Beer Ride

Various locations

Four shuttle buses cart people around to 10 northwest side breweries and/or bars paired with Chicago-area craft breweries. The bars and breweries include: Fischman Liquors & Tavern with Pipeworks Brewing Company, Hops & Barley's with Brickstone Brewery, Rabbits Bar & Grill with Alarmist Brewing, Lake Effect Brewing Company (with a tour of the nearby brewery), Sidekicks with Pollyanna Brewing Company, Templestowe Pub with Rude Hippo Brewing Company and Middle Brow Beer Beer Co., Christina's Place with Finch's Beer Co., BreakRoom Brewery, Montrose Saloon with Bucket List Brewing and Blue Nose Brewery and lastly, Community Tavern with Ale Syndicate Brewers. Buses will be loop along the route, so participants can start anywhere and hop on and off where they like. Bus tickets are $20 and beer is sold separately. 6 p.m.–11 p.m. Tickets: chibeerweek.com

MAY 24

Crap Beer Day

Thalia Hall (1807 S. Allport St. 312-526-3851)

After 11 days of fine imbibing with microbreweries near and far, give your palate a rest at this celebration of easy-drinking brews from the big guys. Choose from $1 beers from Lone Star, Schlitz, Miller High Life, Budweiser, Hamm's and Mickey's, and $5 bottle service with Miller High Life forties. Other festivities include square dance lessons with The Golden Horse Ranch Band and blind taste-tests. $10. 5 p.m. Tickets: chibeerweek.com

READY, SET, BRUNCH

10 new and coming-soon weekend brunch options

By Samantha Nelson | FOR REDEYE

After some frustrating false starts, warm weather seems to have finally arrived. Show off the summer threads you've had stashed all winter while kicking back and filling up at one of these seven newly launched brunches—and three coming soon.

Dive Bar

3445 N. Halsted St. 773-770-4618
Launched: March 21
Dishes: It's all about seafood at this seaside-themed Lakeview hangout with options such as the S.O.S. omelet ($14) stuffed with cheddar, tomato, onion, crawfish and shrimp, all topped with hollandaise sauce incorporating Cajun seasoning and more chunks of seafood. Another favorite is toast topped with shrimp puree then deep-fried in panko bread crumbs and served with a fried egg ($11).
Drinks: For $14, you can add a drink package to your meal that includes three mimosas plus a specialty cocktail from Dive Bar's regular menu or a bloody mary (normally $9) spiced up with sriracha, Clamato and horseradish.
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted.

Bohemian House

11 W. Illinois St. 312-955-0439
Launched: April 11
Dishes: Try European twists on brunch fare at the River North restaurant, which serves Bavarian pancakes ($12), which resemble a fluffier crepe rolled with tart cherries, maple syrup, pecans, farmer's cheese and powdered sugar, and a pork schnitzel sandwich topped with a sunny-side-up egg ($17).
Drinks: Get your caffeine fix with some kick with The Pick Me Up ($11), Bohemian House's proprietary blend of Bow Truss coffee with rye, maple syrup and Fernet Branca-spiked whipped cream, or try the Pulaski Smash ($11), whiskey mixed with passion fruit puree, muddled mint and green bell pepper syrup.
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted.

Mirador

2834 N. Southport Ave. 773-904-7431
Launching: May 17
Dishes: The Lakeview bistro will serve French-influenced fare including brie-blueberry pancakes, baguette French toast with banana-maple syrup, and a vegetarian omelet made with egg whites, asparagus, mushrooms, peppers and Swiss cheese (prices to be determined).
Drinks: Make your brunch extra boozy with bottomless mimosas and bloody marys.
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Sunday, with Saturday hours planned for June. Reservations accepted inside, open outdoor seating.

HQ Howard Quintero

4114 N. Kedzie Ave. 773-654-1629
Launched: April 4
Dishes: You'll find plenty of indulgent fare at this Irving Park restaurant such as the Green Eyed Monster ($12), French bread topped with melted chihuahua cheese, breakfast sausage, salsa verde and a sunny-side-up egg, or the Scotch egg ($8), soft-boiled and wrapped in breakfast sausage, breaded and deep-fried, and served with bacon-onion jam.
Drinks: Thanks to a newly acquired liquor license, brunch cocktails roll out this week, including mimosas ($4), salty dogs ($5) and bloody marys served with a skewer of salami, pickle, cheese and pepperoncini ($5).
Brunch times: 9 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted.

Taus Authentic

1846 W. Division St. 312-561-4500
Launched: April 19
Dishes: Start with apricot-walnut scones or cinnamon rolls (both $6), then dig into a plate of tamales with braised pork, scrambled eggs, poblano chilis and salsa verde ($16).
Drinks: The Wicker Park spot's sidewalk seating is the perfect place to sip an Allagash white beermosa ($8), an apricot-elderflower bellini ($10) or chef Michael Taus' signature gazpacho bloody mary ($10), featuring 24 blended ingredients including fennel, cucumber and celery.
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Sunday.
No reservations.

Oak & Char

217 W. Huron St. 312-643-2427
Launched: April 4
Dishes: The River North restaurant's top brunch seller is the O&C benedict made with ham, fried oysters and collard greens on a rye muffin with buttermilk hollandaise ($14). For something sweet, try the wheat-oat scones with apricot marmalade butter ($5) or tonka bean doughnuts with rhubarb jam ($6).
Drinks: The bloody mary mix features smoked tomato puree, caper brine, bay leaf and horseradish mixed with your choice of gin, whiskey or vodka ($10). Or try frozen red sangria by the glass ($12) or pitcher ($45).
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted inside. Patio is first come, first served.

Hopsmith Tavern

15 W. Division St. 312-600-9816
Launched: April 11
Dishes: The Gold Coast pub shows off its Michigan State affiliation by serving the Go Green Breakfast Dub ($10), a twist on the East Lansing post-bar favorite that's essentially a grilled breakfast burrito stuffed with breakfast potatoes, scrambled eggs, spicy housemade beer cheese and your choice of pork belly, Canadian bacon or sausage. Or try Morning After Tacos ($10), which features thin pancakes taking the place of tortillas along with strips of buttermilk-marinated fried chicken, scrambled eggs, sausage gravy and white cheddar.
Drinks: Sip $5 bloody marys and mimosas, or try the Fiery Mule ($10), a mix of ginger beer, lime and pineapple juices and Fireball whiskey.
Brunch times: 11 a.m.-2 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted.

Cochon Volant

100 W. Monroe St. 312-754-6560
Launched: April 25
Dishes: The French brasserie specializes in benedicts ($15.95), so you can choose from four different remixes on the classic featuring country ham, smoked salmon, double-cut bacon with heirloom tomato or veggie (avocado, artichoke and spinach). For something sweet, share a cinnamon roll with Nutella frosting ($5.95).
Drinks: The Daily Shave ($14), a booze-infused snow cone, has proved so popular that the restaurant is buying a second ice machine to keep up with demand.
Brunch times: 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted.

Remington's

20 N. Michigan Ave. 312-782-6000
Launching: May 16
Dishes: The soon-to-debut brunch menu will feature a crab benedict with lobster bisque-style hollandaise, poached egg and jumbo lump crab ($21) and monkey bread ($10), which is cooked in an iron skillet and topped with cream cheese frosting.

Mission Mary from Presidio

Fried egg sandwich from Remington's

Drinks: The Venetian spritz ($12) features prosecco and Campari sweetened with a sugar cube, while the bloody mary ($12) uses the mix from sibling spot Smoke Daddy and is garnished with a skewer of mozzarella, tomato, pepperoni and lime.
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Reservations accepted

Presidio

1749 N. Damen Ave. 773-697-3315
Launched: May 10
Dishes: Executive chef Shaun Connolly puts a Southeast Asian twist on shrimp and grits ($18) by mixing in bamboo shoots, coconut curry and Thai chilis. He also incorporates the California-inspired Bucktown bar's favorite spirit into the brunch menu with a pisco-cured salmon served with an everything bagel, cream cheese, pickled red onions and capers ($16).
Drinks: The Mission Mary ($10), a take on a bloody mary named for a major street in San Francisco, uses a blend of mango puree, tomato juice, worcestershire sauce and Cholula hot sauce and is served with a glass of pickled vegetables and a skewer of habanero cheddar and carnitas.
Brunch times: 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Sunday, with Saturday brunch planned for June. Reservations accepted.

NIGHTCRAWLERS

SEEN ON THE SCENE AT ... UPTOWN UNDERGROUND, 4707 N. BROADWAY

Every step down the staircase to the Uptown Underground is a step back in time toward the Prohibition era, when everyone's nightly drinking was barely visible, just like the cabaret ladies' clothing. This new underground speakeasy, located across the street from the Green Mill, is the new home to The Kiss Kiss Cabaret, a five-year-running burlesque show featuring the Kiss Kiss Coquettes, Grabbo Flattery and Doodles the drummer. We stopped in to take a look around.

–HEATHER SCHROERING, REDEYE

Mike Rudolphsen 31, cloud engineer

What do you do for the cloud? Every time you guys put something there, I'm there.

What are you doing there? I'm watching your data.

What are you drinking? [Revolution] Anti-Hero, because it's the best beer I've ever had in my life, and I drink it copiously.

Why did you come here? I live in the area. We heard there was a burlesque show, and we had to check it out. And to support local business.

What do you think about it being underground? Oh, it's awesome. It really helps establish the area and look they're going for.

Do you buy into the whole "Al Capone underground tunnel" thing? Oh yeah, I buy into everything, for a time at least.

Michael Cochran 26, teacher

So it's your birthday tonight? It is, I'm 26.

Have you been here before? It's my first time.

What are you drinking? I've had a couple of drinks. I had a Koval vodka martini. I love Koval.

How'd you end up here? My girlfriend [is in town from] St. Louis. I heard about this place on a random newsletter.

What did you like? I've never been to a burlesque show. Going underground is pretty cool.

Coco 'Lottie a l'Ouest' Kasperowicz 22, performer

Why'd you come to the show tonight? I'm friends with a few of the performers.

What do you think so far? I think it's great. Being part of the burlesque community, I know a lot of people through Facebook. Meeting them [in person] after [the show] is really fun.

Where do you do burlesque? Gorilla Tango Theatre. I'm The Penguin in "Holy Bouncing Boobies! A Batman Burlesque."

CANDY COCKTAILS COMING TO DYLAN'S

Dylan's Candy Bar
ANTHONY SOUFFLE/TRIBUNE

It's been pretty hard to resist the sugary siren song of Dylan's Candy Bar, the eye-popping candy shop that opened earlier this year at 445 N. Michigan Ave. (Full disclosure: It's in the same building as RedEye's newsroom, which makes the act of resistance even harder!) This spring, the store is about to get even more decadent with the addition of a cafe and bar, which is just as whimsically decorated as you'd expect thanks to bright turquoise chairs and barstools that resemble red- and white-swirled peppermint candies.

Heather Schroering and Lisa Arnett from RedEye's Eat & Drink section caught up with owner Dylan Lauren to get a sneak peek of the bar's menu—which has no shortage of gummy garnishes and flavored vodkas—and played a real-or-fake guessing game with the playfully named drinks. Watch them on video at redeyechicago.com/candy.

Matt Dillon in 'Wayward Pines'

Wayward Pines
8 p.m. Thursdays, Fox

Getting a 'Sense' of things

M. Night Shyamalan adds distinct touch to Fox show

By Steven Zeitchik | LOS ANGELES TIMES

When he first tried to lure director M. Night Shyamalan to the TV series "Wayward Pines," screenwriter Chad Hodge decided to bring the house.

As a limited series, he noted to Shyamalan, each episode would allow for a degree of cinematic honing. There was plenty of source material—one novel written and more on the way. And the show's mysteries would allow for the kind of narrative adventurousness for which Shyamalan is known.

Hodge received a cheeky response.

"He said, 'As long as everyone in it isn't already dead, I'm in,' " Hodge recalled, alluding to Shyamalan's trademark reveal at the end of "The Sixth Sense."

There still will be plenty to puzzle over when Fox debuts the first of 10 "Pines" episodes Thursday. Starring Matt Dillon (like Shyamalan, his TV debut) as a Secret Service agent far from home, "Wayward Pines" thrusts viewers into an Idaho hamlet where the cheer is forced and the behavior suspicious.

With its small-town oddities, "Wayward Pines" even calls to mind, at least for a little while, the cultish "Twin Peaks."

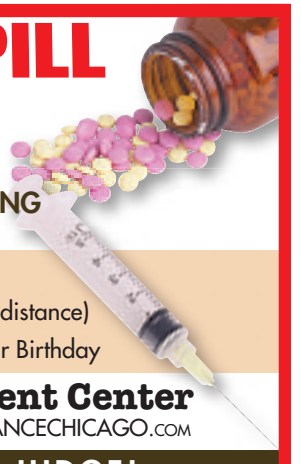

In the first episode, Dillon's Ethan Burke is sent to find a missing colleague when he gets into a car accident near Wayward Pines. Ethan wanders into town, only to find himself hospitalized against his will. When he breaks free, he has questions galore.

Dillon's character receives no help from the locals, who include a creepy nurse (Melissa Leo), a relentless teacher (Hope Davis), a mysterious bartender (Juliette Lewis) and a sneering, ice cream-loving sheriff (Terrence Howard).

But the show moves from "Twin Peaks"-esque as the episodes pile up. Instead, it's series like "Lost," "The Stepford Wives" and "The Twilight Zone" that reverberate. And then comes the real surprise—the mystery of the town is revealed only halfway through the season, in a dramatic genre shift likely to be gleefully received by some and reviled by others.

"You never want to put that paradigm shift [a twist] at the very end because you want to live in the new world," said Shyamalan, who directed the first episode and set the tone and recruited directors for the remaining nine. "And this allows me to live in that new world for the whole second half of a season."

B.J. Novak and Mindy Kaling in 'The Mindy Project'

THE QUOTE

"I WILL FREELY ADMIT: MY RELATIONSHIP WITH B.J. NOVAK IS WEIRD AS HELL. HE IS NOT MY BOYFRIEND, BUT HE IS NOT MY BEST FRIEND. I GUESS YOU COULD DESCRIBE OUR RELATIONSHIP AS A 'ROMANTICALLY CHARGED CAMARADERIE WITH LOUD ARGUMENTS,' BUT I DON'T THINK FACEBOOK WOULD ACCEPT THIS AS A NEW STATUS." —Mindy Kaling, to In Style, on her relationship with former "The Office" co-star B.J. Novak. How verrrrrry interesting. Kaling appears on the cover of the magazine's June issue.

HOT DATE

SUNDAY

That's when Taylor Swift and an army of her famous friends will appear in the world premiere of the music video for "Bad Blood" during the Billboard Music Awards, Time reports. In a series of posters playing up the debut, Swift and her posse appear as badass-looking superheroes with super fun names: Ellie Goulding is "Destructa X," Lena Dunham is "Lucky Fiori," Jessica Alba is "Domino," Kendrick Lamar is "Welvin Da Great" and Swift stars as "Catastrophe." We're hoping this signals a return to "Thriller"-style music video mini movies.

Swiping right with Aziz

As gadget-obsessed Tom Haverford on "Parks and Recreation," Aziz Ansari was oddly smooth with the ladies (remember when he landed Ann Perkins?), so it seems appropriate that the comedian's new book, out next month, focuses on a familiar topic: love in the digital age. Ansari teamed up with a sociologist for "Modern Romance" and tackles topics like texting and online dating, Vanity Fair reports. "I think our cellphones have given us the tools to be rude," Ansari told the mag. "It's easier to send a text to split up with someone than to have a conversation and, you know, deal with the ramifications. It's easier because you're not going to hear the disappointment in their voice."

Moon of his life

Jay Z knows his queen should be treated like one and apparently she should be treated like one queen in particular. The hip hop mogul reportedly got wife and major "Game of Thrones" fan Beyonce a dragon egg from the show. Emilia Clarke, who plays Mother of Dragons Daenerys Targaryen on the HBO drama told Harper's Bazaar: "Apparently Jay Z bought one for Beyonce, or something. I don't know." So just how much does it cost to be a little closer to Stormborn? According to Clarke, those things are "really, really, really expensive."

THE DIGIT

70

Party at Shining Time Station! That's how old Thomas the Tank Engine, everybody's favorite little blue locomotive, turned on Tuesday, ew.com reports. In honor of the occasion, The Telegraph published a history of the animated train that explores what keeps the classic children's character pulling in nearly $1 billion in merchandise sales annually. Talk about the little engine that could, amiright?
